Manchester Group is a recognized leader in providing building envelope, process equipment, design, engineering, fabrication, and installation solutions for a broad range of industries.

Customers look to us to solve their challenges, not just provide generic products or components.

We have the in-house capabilities to provide a range of offerings, from completely customized services to integrated turnkey solutions.

40 Years of Excellence

Manchester Group is a third generation business that continues to distinguish ourselves from competition with our family spirit, innovative company, expansive capabilities, and willingness to partner with customers on solutions. Some of our recent business expansions include our in-house design, engineering, fabrication, manufacturing, and installation capabilities.

Our leadership position among other suppliers is demonstrated by the way we continue to redefine what it traditionally means to be a manufacturers' representative business. The key to our success has been our belief that businesses prosper when relationships, trust, and customer service remain the central focus. Our commitment to quality, service, and timely response has allowed us to earn customer loyalty and trust.

Exceptional projects start with Manchester.

Our comprehensive business units are designed to work together to deliver everything needed for optimal production to complete your project efficiently and within budget.

Construction

We address an assortment of critical functions related to new and existing construction; including concrete protection, concrete repair, wall system solutions, water management, and protective floor finishes and coatings. Our building envelope technology promotes building functionality, enhances structural appearance, and extends the life of your building and its major structural components.

Composites

We're challenging the norm of metallic solutions. Manchester Group delivers the composite solutions your project requires while exceeding expectations in weight savings and corrosion resistance. For over 40 years, Manchester Group has been providing specialized corrosion resistant and fiberglass reinforced products (FRP) that serve a host of industrial applications.

Process Equipment

We partner with the industry leading brands you count on. Our extensive portfolio of fluid process equipment enables us to address specialized challenges with optimal solutions. Whether it be through our comprehensive product line, our expert product specification assistance, or our integrated turn-key solutions, we offer both the people and products needed to help you define and implement your application's ideal integrated solution.

Design

Our process engineers have the technical capabilities to perform critical calculations and the experience to apply industry standard best practices to deliver a complete and thorough design. To ensure our process systems meet our clients specific needs, we provide customers with conceptual drawings and sketches, detailed P&ID's, and finalized 3D models.

Fabrication

Fabrication recognizes unique needs to produce truly customized solutions. We handle a wide range of projects, including small, specialized skids, large pump skids, and complete turnkey skid systems. The controlled environment and schedule-time savings of fabrication allows us to create the assemblies and products in a more productive way, which in turn shortens the installation time in the field.

Installation

Complete installation and integration is our goal at Manchester Group. We want to take our expertise directly to the customer's facility. Manchester Group's expert pre-planning, coordination, and support enables you to begin planning the installation of your system long before the actual installation date. We guarantee proper integration of components and equipment into your system.

We work with the highest quality brands in the industry.

Integrated Turnkey Solutions

Our turnkey approach means you don't have to go anywhere else. Whether it's a single component for a system or a highly customizable system, Manchester Group will work with you to implement a solution that will meet your needs, no matter the size of the project.

Systems and Components

Our brands are backed by individual legacies of trust, reliability, and performance. We represent top tier brands that offer a wide range of capabilities, allowing us to match each client with a system or component that meets and exceeds requirements and expectations.

Capabilities and Services

We keep you and your business moving forward. Our project capabilities and services cover all aspects of a project from engineering and design to fabrication and installation. Our knowledgeable and experienced teams work alongside you to help manage your project needs.

Strategic Alliance Approach

Our carefully cultivated strategic alliances allow us to have an expansive network, mobilize large, complex projects with expertise, and provide readily available resources without the expensive overhead costs that large corporations have.

We move you forward.

Our #1 goal is to provide innovative, efficient, and cost-effective value-add solutions to maximize profitability and success.
